— UNRAVELED ARTISTS VISIT ATLANTA TO ENJOY A SUNDAY AFTERNOON WITH EYEDRUM—// ENTERTAINMENT + HIP TO DEATH + NIKKI MCKNIGHT //

ATLANTA, GA — Local Downtown Atlanta community arts organization Eyedrum hosts Unraveled's first annual appearance in Atlanta with an atmospheric art installation, experimental cirque arts performance and live music show on their rooftop arts space the afternoon of Sunday, May 22nd, 2016.

Including music performances by local artists Entertainment, Hip to Death and Nikki McKnight whose work spans the sonic realms of post-punk, deathrock, goth, noise and even hip-hop. The cross genre selections of live music is a signature style of Unraveled's curatorial team. The show is designed as a journey through audio and visual stimuli and presents the audience with an artful escape on a lazy Sunday afternoon.

Installation artist Farida Amar will construct a performance space for both the live music as well as accompanying performance aerial dancer Sara Gregory and cirque performance artists from the local collective Liquid Sky led by Marilyn Chen. Together the artists involved will tell a reflective story of multitudes that exist within ourselves and between each other.

Unraveled is collective for independent musicians and designers, performance artists and writers, video and sound mavens and installation artists. With this show, Unraveled launches an important relationship with the Eyedrum collective that will continue through the design of experimental multi sensory experiences for years to come.

Drag yourself out of bed on Sunday afternoon and support the local independent arts while kicking back on one of the only rooftops downtown. Nurse your hangovers from the night before and enjoy avoiding the inevitable return of Monday morning with us.

Sunday, May 22nd, 2016 from 12PM to 4 PM
